

WAC Workshops: Details & Costs

Our workshops are a comprehensive programme of low cost, practical soup and superfood making activities using, where possible, locally grown and sourced produce to help people to learn how to make healthy and delicious soups and other foods that are nutritious and cost effective.

- Many people who attend our workshops are facing a number of challenges caused by deprivation and poverty, including long term health issues (both mental and physical), social isolation, previous bad experiences and associated lack of confidence and direction.
- Many are economically inactive or on long term JSA/ESA.
- They can often find it difficult to engage with opportunities because of this, which is why we aim to build trustful and respectful relationships with all our volunteers and participants.

During the workshops participants – and through them their families - are encouraged to make healthy life choices and also given advice on budgeting, local volunteering, training and signposted towards employment opportunities.

- In addition they have the opportunity to participate in our activities for selling soup at local markets, and making and distributing soup as volunteers via our Flask Soup Friday delivery round.

The workshops are run in a friendly and supportive environment where participants will be able to share experiences, learn from one another and gain confidence. We aim to tackle particular problems such as:

Isolation:

Participants may be:

- Insecure about trying new things
- Lacking in confidence
- Lacking in access to kitchen equipment
- Afraid of healthy food – feel it will not taste nice
- Amazed that healthy food can taste nice and be affordable

Poverty:

Participants may have issues around:

- Lack of knowledge about budgeting and money management

- Background of deprivation
- Constant struggle to make ends meet
- Needing high levels of reassurance
- Domestic violence
- Drug or alcohol misuse
- Anti-social behaviour

Health:

We want to help people to who can struggle with:

- Gaining a basic understanding of the importance of eating healthily
- Putting this into practice to improve their health by making healthy soups using locally sourced produce
- A background of cheap ready meals and packaged food
- A lack of cooking facilities – also a background where cooking not learnt/taught

Participants are encouraged to contribute their own ideas and suggestions into the workshops. Courses are tailored to take account of varying skills and ability levels, and everyone is encouraged to work together to achieve their potential.
